Inclusive education

Inclusive education is a philosophy that emphasizes providing equal opportunities for all students, regardless of their abilities, backgrounds, or differences. It goes beyond mere integration, aiming to create a learning environment where every student feels valued, respected, and included.

The core principle of inclusive education is to accommodate diverse learning styles and needs, fostering an atmosphere that celebrates diversity rather than viewing it as a hindrance. Inclusive classrooms encourage collaboration, understanding, and empathy among students, preparing them for a world that embraces differences.

This approach not only benefits students with disabilities but also enhances the overall educational experience for everyone involved. Inclusive education promotes a sense of belonging, nurturing a culture where each individual's unique strengths contribute to the collective growth of the learning community.

By breaking down barriers and fostering an inclusive mindset, education becomes a powerful tool for fostering social equality and creating a more tolerant and harmonious society.

Inclusive education, basic principles

- Equality: Inclusive education promotes equality by ensuring that all students, regardless of their abilities, disabilities, socio-economic backgrounds, or other differences, have equal access to educational opportunities and resources.
- Non-discrimination: The principle of non-discrimination emphasizes the removal of barriers that could limit a student's participation in educational activities. Inclusive education seeks to eliminate biases and prejudices, fostering an environment where every student is treated fairly and without discrimination.
- Accessibility: Inclusive education focuses on making learning environments physically, socially, and academically accessible to all students. This may involve providing assistive technologies, adapting teaching methods, and making adjustments to facilities to accommodate diverse needs.
- Participation: The principle of participation emphasizes the active involvement of all students in the learning process.

Course description

Inclusive education is a contemporary educational approach that aims to ensure equal access to education for all students, regardless of their individual needs. It seeks to overcome the barriers and stereotypes within the system that hinder its ability to cater to the diverse needs of students.

Inclusive education recognizes and appreciates the unique contributions that each student brings to the classroom. In a truly inclusive environment, every child feels secure and a sense of belonging. Students and their parents actively participate in setting learning objectives and are involved in decision-making processes that impact them.

Inclusive education is rooted in the principles of equality, social justice, and the acceptance of diversity, ensuring equal opportunities for all students, including those with disabilities.

This course will provide a fun, relaxed environment in which teachers will learn strategies, working methods and approaches to deal with classroom diversity and how to make inclusive education a reality in their school.

Enjoy training... and Andalusia

Obviously, training is a key aspect, but the environment makes the experience complete. That's why Cordoba is the best possible setting, the only city in the world with four World Heritage Sites by UNESCO, a city steeped in history and culture, and also the ideal place to discover Andalusia.

Less than an hour away by train you can enjoy the bewitching Seville, the cosmopolitan Malaga and the haunting Granada, as well as having some of the best beaches just two hours away by car. All in the best connected city in Spain by high-speed train, 1.45 minutes from Madrid and in the centre of Spain's most charming region. Are you going to miss it?

How to get to Córdoba?

Córdoba has no airport, but there are excellent connections to our city from three international airports thanks to the AVE (High Speed Train):

- Madrid. 400 kilometres, 1.45 hours to Córdoba by train.
- Seville. 130 kilometres, 45 minutes to Córdoba by train.
- Málaga. 145 kilometres. 50 minutes to Córdoba by train.

Málaga is the best option, due to the high amount and variety of international destinations and the facilities to link your flight to the train.

Madrid International Airport Adolfo Suárez is the biggest airport in Spain and it has connections with all the important destinations in Europe. Flights use to be cheaper and both the frequency and the options are higher, so it is also a good chance.

Seville is another option, though destinations and frequencies are not the best. Check if it fits your plans.

Train. There are different companies offering connections from and to Madrid, Málaga and Sevilla to Córdoba. The sooner you book, the cheaper!!

- RENFE (www.renfe.es). In trains from and to Seville or Málaga, you will find AVE and AVANT. The service is the same, though this last one is cheaper. It happens the same from Madrid with AVE and ALVIA.
- IRYO. (<https://iryo.eu>). Cheap tickets if booked with months in advance.
- AVLO (<https://avlorenfe.com>). From June 1st 2023. Renfe low cost brand.
